CAPTURING MOMENTS THAT TURN INTO MEMORIES

HI!

My business motto is "Capturing moments that turn into memories". This is exactly how I will approach your wedding day. You will spend many hours planning your wedding, including taking the time to read this. So your wedding day should be a testimony to all your efforts and the months (or even years) of planning knowing: that your day is being captured the way you want it to be.

It's super important to me to get to know my clients and for them to get to know me. You will spend a lot of time on your wedding day with your photographer and also speaking to them in the run up. Getting to know you means I can capture your day through your eyes as well as my own. The best wedding photographs come from liking and trusting your wedding photographer; and making sure their photographs tell the story of your day- the way you want it to be told or even better!

So, to start the getting to know you process, here are a few random facts about me!

- I love chocolate (but only bars, I find chocolate flavourings too sickly most of the time - weird I know);
- I'm known to have 15/20 bobby pins in my hair at one time;
- My favourite films are Mamma Mia & The Greatest Showman;
- G&T's & cocktail type of girl;
- Old school music lover - Stevie Wonder, Abba, Lionel Richie, Diana Ross & Whitney Houston to name a few!

Would love to know if we share anything in common!

ABOUT ME & HOW I WORK

I take relaxed, natural and authentic photos of laid back, but and loved up couples who want to enjoy their day. Creating lasting memories, full of love and laughter, whilst effortlessly capturing the photos you want.

I capture your day as it unfolds, seeking out the highlights of the day and evening, without being invasive. Whether that be a confetti shot, first look, an emotional teary eyed moment, or someone throwing their best shapes on the dance floor (I have to admit I do love a dance floor shot and I can pretty much guarantee I will have a little sing and dance myself from the sidelines)!

Pre planned shots are the only time I try to intervene (unless there is an amazing unexpected sunset or golden hour). These might be the shots that mean a lot to you, so it's important they don't take all day to get (dragging you away from time with your guests).

TESTIMONIES/ WHAT HAVE OTHERS SAID

"Harriet, you were exactly what we were looking for in a wedding photographer. I am not very photogenic but you have produced the most beautiful photos of me, my husband as well as all our guests. You managed to get all the photos we requested without stopping the natural flow of our wedding day and the guests even commented on how friendly, yet professional you were. I was so impressed with you and the work you have done that I recommend you whenever someone is after a photographer.."

Bride and Groom

WHAT'S MY FAVOURITE PART OF THE WEDDING DAY?

Take a look at the photos on the right, these photographs were captured right at my favourite moment!

This bride and groom had just been pronounced husband and wife with the first kiss due any second. Within the small gap of silence before the registrar spoke, the bride let out a small squeal of excitement and became rather giggly. This set the whole room alight with laughter especially her now husband.

Every couple has a unique moment of realisation when they are pronounced married. It's this reaction and moment that is my favourite!
To capture the moment as it unfolds is a pleasure!

The best thing about this, was that I was the only person to see their actual reaction and capture it! All their guests just heard and saw the body language, but I was there to capture their actual facial expressions and moment.
